Art Unit: 3747

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-2, 5-8, 10, 13-14, and 17-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Crofts ('533)

In particular, the applicant's attention is directed to Figure 4 and the description of this figure found in paragraphs [0036] through [0038] of the disclosure. More specifically, the applicant's attention is directed to lines 33-38 of paragraph [0036] and lines 13-18 of paragraph [0037]. These lines clearly indicate that the beginning and ending of the control signal is determined from the geometry of the injection rate as indicated by the lift sensor.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 11-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Crofts ('533).

Crofts applies as noted above and the noted paragraph [0036] states that the delay times for each feedback cycle are noted and then used in the next injection cycle.

Art Unit: 3747

In order to use these variations, it would have been obvious to store them as learned values (if not inherent).

Claims 3-4, 9 and 15-16 remain allowed.

Applicant's arguments filed 8/15/07 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. In particular, the examiner is hereby withdrawing the Final Rejection of 5/15/07 in order to give the applicant every opportunity to consider the specific passages now identified in the specification of Crofts and how these passages relate to the applicant's language now entered into the case via applicant's amendment of 8/15/07. As noted in the previous Final Rejection, applicant's Claim 2 states that the lift sensor of this claimed device is used to at least approximate the fuel injection rate. This is also true in Crofts and this is clear from the disclosures found in paragraphs [0036] through [0038] of the reference. While it may be true that the device initially uses other means to set the injection timing and quantity, this is also true in the applicant's device and is clearly claimed in line 3-4 of Claim 1. Thus, Crofts does use feedback from the lift sensor to control timing, quantity and injection rate as specifically described in the above rejection under 35 U.S.C. 102 (e).

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
